You bet the golden Virginia tobacco in Perfections is sprightly and refreshing! It has to be. Because it is as naturally good as Nature grew it.

Just try Perfections. See if you have ever tasted any other cigarette that was more refreshing or more mellow in natural flavor.

Then, you'll understand why so many thousands of men EVERY DAY are smoking Perfections—because they're

Does It Run On Kerosene?

THE most important feature of a farm power engine today is the fuel it uses.

That, more than anything else, determines its usefulness and economy.

At present prices of gasoline and kerosene, you could not afford to accept a gasoline engine as a gift, if you had to use it.

You could better afford to pay a big premium for a Mogul kerosene engine.

See the Mogul work on kerosene. Ask your dealer to show you the difference in fuel cost between a Mogul in any size from 1 to 50-H. P., and a gasoline engine of the same size. The figures will surprise you.

Member the faker who used to travel up and down the country firing kerosene lamps so they wouldn't explode? Subsequent investigation usually proved that his ingredients were a little not too coarse rock salt and a small piece of red flannel. He disappeared a generation or so ago, but one of his direct descendants has just perfected a substitute for gasoline as a fuel for internal combustion engines. His ingredients being water and a mysterious blue powder. There's probably not been such an appeal for suckers since Rev. Mr. Demogant developed his scheme for extracting gold from seawater.

Our state road will soon be ruined if the speeding which is forbidden is allowed. The signs regulating the speed limit do not seem to have any more weight than those forbidding riding wheels on the sidewalks. After the law is enforced once or twice they will be more careful. We cannot find fault with tourists when our town people are breaking the rules.

HINTS FOR STOUT WOMEN.

Never wear shiny stuffs, such as satin. They catch the light on the curves of your figure and make you look much stouter than you really are. Soft dull stuffs are the right things for you.

Never wear a blouse of one stuff and the skirt of another, but always have whole dresses or costumes. A contrast vest, collar or front on a dark dress is quite allowable.

Wear stripes or plain stuffs rather than checks or flowered patterns. Don't have a contrasting belt. It cuts you in two, and by taking away from your height increases your apparent width.

Wear low collars. High ones are very unbecoming to a thick throat, and, besides, you are nearly sure to have a pretty neck—most stout people have—so you may as well show it.

Let your indoor skirts touch, close fitting on the hips, with a good flare out at the foot. A skirt which draws in round the feet always increases the apparent size of the hips.

Don't wear gray, pale pink, pale blue or pale violet. White and cream, if they are dull, sometimes help to make the figure seem slim, but pale pastel shades are always very broadening. Your best colors are black, mole and the darker shades of blue, brown, green, red or purple, according to your complexion.

THE AVERAGE USEFULNESS.

A homeless and hungry man who applied for relief said that he could speak 10 languages and complained that a college education had not done him much good.

An education such as this gives a man the advantage of being able to ask for a meal at almost any household in this broad land, but is this real education?

It is the rule rather than the exception that the high grade college men are outstripped by the self-schooled Lincolns. Some eminently successful business men have declared that their experience has taught them to beware of applicants from the classical colleges and even from the high schools of today.

Higher learning and cultivation of the esthetic are good. They are essential to the happiness and usefulness of the individual, as they are to the progress and development of the race.

But these must be the superstructure, not the foundation.

The first things that make the nation are not the learned scholar, the famous artist, the magic musician, but the practical farmer, the skilled artisan, the successful merchant.

The nation's true greatness is not in its libraries, its halls of art, its temples of music, but in its productive farms, its busy factories and the marts of trade.

Our sweetest national song is the rhythmic hum of industry. Our highest glory is in the happy homes of a prosperous people.

One may speak 10 languages, and only beg for food. Another may speak but one, and that imperfectly, and yet give to the world a wondrous message.

AXIOMS OF AN OCTOGENARIAN WORKER.

Hard work is the best thing ever invented to keep a man young.

That talk about men being too old to work at 60 is all fiddlesticks.

Maybe the present school system of discipline is to blame for so many men being out of work. A good sound thrashing once in a while is the best thing that can happen to a growing boy.

I wouldn't advise any ambitious young man to enter the postal service. If he does, it will unfit him for any other kind of work.

Money isn't always a sign of success, although most people of today consider it so.

Any man who works hard all his life and enjoys good health up to the time he is my age, can consider himself successful.

Always looking for new and better ways of doing your work will pay in the long run.

Pound Cake of Course.

A man went to order a wedding cake the other day.

"I'm getting married," he said, "and I want a cake."

"Well, it's the latest thing," said the shop girl, "to have wedding cakes in harmony with the bridegroom's calling or profession. Thus a journalist has a spiced cake, a musician an oat cake, an athlete a cup cake, a man who loses on his friends a sponge cake, and so forth and so on. What is your calling, please?"

"I am a pianist."

"Then, of course," said the girl, "you'll want a pound cake."

Landry and several police to the place kept there by Lafamme. County Attorney Albert Bellevue appeared for the State and B. L. Landry for Mr. Lafamme. Mr. Landry, who is now a State detective, was one of the witnesses. After the visits to the place, Lafamme left town, but later returned and is now proprietor of the Rumford Inn. The case of the State vs. Ubaldo Penzo, of Mexico, was taken up. N. G. Foster appeared for the respondent. Penzo was charged with keeping and disposing intoxicating liquors with intent to sell. After the State had put in the evidence, the Judge ordered a verdict of not guilty. The decision hinged upon a point of law, following a variance between the allegations of the warrant and the evidence presented by the State.

Benedicto Penzo, convicted of keeping a liquor nuisance in Mexico was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs and paid.

In the cases town of Mexico vs. town of Mexico, brought to recover costs expended in providing for Mrs. Charles Hickbert and two minor children, paupers; and $18 expended in maintenance of Mrs. Ellen Roach, the finding was for Mexico in each case. E. E. Hastings of Bethel, attorney for Machias, filed exceptions in each case. The case will be taken up by the court.

L. W. Blanchard of Rumford appeared for Mexico, and among the witnesses examined were Hon. Bert Goodwin of Mexico, W. D. Howard of Mexico, both former selectmen, and Ward and John Keenear of the firm of Keenear Bros., who sold groceries to the town.

In these cases, Mr. Hastings had a list of the entire amount of groceries, and inquired of witnesses if eggs at 60c a dozen, cucumbers at 7c each, bread at 10c a loaf to the number of 250 loaves, canned strawberries and other canned goods in unlimited amount, beef steaks, etc., were proper pauper supplies. It was brought out that during a part of the year which Mrs. Heckbert was assisted, she was ill and required nursing food.

In the amount case of Eugene Black the judgement of the lower court was confirmed.

The liquor cases of John Conrad, Kale Perry, Fred Russell, Ed. Casey and Casper Barnes, the judgement of the lower court was also confirmed.

The list of divorces granted follows: Roswell B. Nevers vs. Cora M. Nevers, cruel and abusive treatment; children to libel.

Atta E. Lochlin vs. William H. Lochlin, intoxication, and cruelty; children to libel.

Josephus Lohnes vs. Sadie May Lohnes, adultery.

Eva May Farrar vs. Elean C. Farrar, cruelty and intoxication.

Nahum B. Rand vs. Sadie May Rand, adultery.

Charles F. Brackett vs. Ellen M. Brackett, desertion.

Guy H. Ingalls vs. Eva B. Ingalls, desertion; care of children to G. H. Ingalls.

Margaret B. Burrows vs. William B. Burrows, cruelty and inability to provide; children to libel.

An evening session of court was held Friday. Court adjourned Saturday morning.

BYRON.

Early Sunday morning, May 7th, the birch mill owned by Z. W. Bartlett of Bethel was discovered on fire and before help could be obtained, burned to the ground with all its contents. It is thought the fire started from an engine room at that part of the mill was all afire when discovered. The mill had been running only about six weeks. About twenty hands were employed, and quite a large amount of birch is on-hand to be sawed. The mill will probably be rebuilt. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

MAINE'S RESOURCES.

Maine occupies one-half of New England, but out of six millions and a half of population Maine has only between seven and eight hundred thousand.

Maine supports only 24.8 people per square mile, while Rhode Island supports 508.5.

Maine's population could be increased five-fold and be no more thickly settled than is Switzerland.

Maine is the least populous of all the States east of the Mississippi, according to her area.

Maine has no great deserts, such as there are in the Western States, to keep her population down.

Maine territory is all arable and so is suited to be the garden of the country. Small as the State is in population she ranks third in the production of potatoes. The unsurpassed water power of Maine should put her into the first rank of manufacturing States. There is practically no limit to the number of wheels that might be turned by the proper development of this great resource.

In lumbering Maine with her 20,000 square miles of forests should be in the van of the States. With wise conservation this one industry should be a source of wealth for all time.

Maine, with her hundred harbors, is as well situated for commerce as for farming, lumbering and manufacturing. Shipping, both foreign and coastwise, was the first great pursuit carried on here.

In the fisheries of the country Maine should be second to no State. The most numerous of the edible finny tribes are swimming in the waters off our shores.

What an influx of home-seekers would come to Maine if they realized the inducements here held out to them! In flocking to the far-off regions of floods, droughts and cyclones, they pass over the fairest, and gentlest spot of nature on this broad continent.

"Boom New England" is the cry of the coming tercentenary epoch.

"Boom Maine" should be made a special slogan.

The twentieth anniversary of the local W. C. T. U. was observed the 10th instant at the home of Alice Wilbur.

Guests were present. After a brief business session following program was enjoyed: singing, Fannie Wight; music, Ethel Skillings; reading, Etta Warren; song, Winifred Walker; reading, Mrs. Rebecca Shedd; twenty years' history compiled and read by the President, Elizabeth L. Scribner. Letters were read from several absent members. A banquet was given with a variety menu was served in the spacious dining room by the committee: Alice Wilbur, Gertrude Weston and Rebecca Shedd. The center-piece was a large cake beautifully frosted and decorated with a big bow of white in the center and the letters W. C. T. U. in the corners. The cake was the work of Mrs. Wilbur and was much admired.

The members were pleased to greet on this occasion one of their valued members who has been absent during the winter: Mrs. Sarah Weston. The Union is in splendid standing financially and is grateful for the great prosperity which has attended it for twenty years.

Rev. John B. Carruthers occupied the pulpit Sunday afternoon and evening.

EARNED FIRST SUIT.

Capt. L. C. Bisbee of Minneapolis, an Oxford County boy, tells how he procured his first suit of store clothes as follows:

At about the age of fifteen or sixteen I came to the decision that I must have a suit of clothes. (I had never had any suit of clothes.) I went into heavy timber alone and chopped, split and piled thirty cords for my uncle John Stetson. He paid me thirty-three cents a cord and boarded me.

I felled a rock maple, the diameter of whose stump was the length of my axe and handle, or about two and one-half feet. I stood on it and cut it into four foot lengths, and there were ten of them to the first limb.

My fingers were well skinned in doing this. I had to get fatter to help split it and often a wedge would fly fifteen or twenty feet when struck with the maul, it being frozen.

I cut other large birch and beech trees. My stunt was two cords a day. When through, my uncle took me to the village store and I bought the cloth for pants, coat, etc.

Then I took my saw and went to the village, sawed cord wood for them and split it for one dollar a cord, and bought other goods until I had enough for a complete suit.

Then I saved wood for another uncle who was a shoemaker, and he made me a pair of long-legged calf-skin boots. Then I had the neighborhood tailor make up the clothes. I don't recollect what I had for a hat, but I think I did not go bare-headed. When I got that suit on I was "hunky dory."

This took place about sixty-three years since.

The first real money I earned was a two dollar bill for three nights' work in a saw-mill.

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

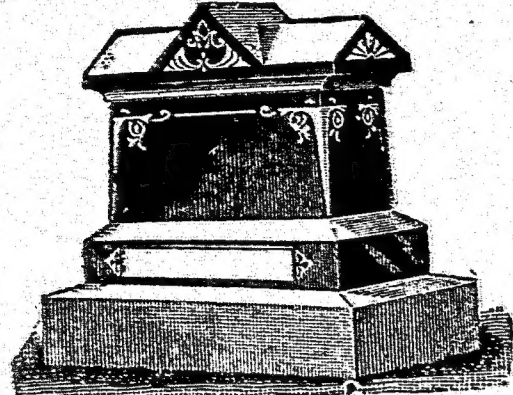

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excitable; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions. It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to build up the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

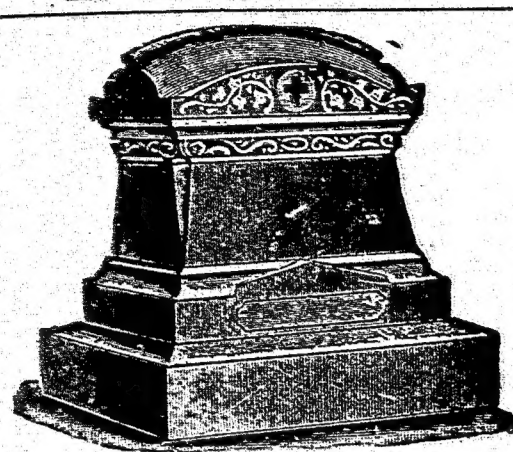

Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol, (cott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.)

COAL TAR DYES.

"A virtually forgotten industry is being revived with frantically haste as a result of the discontinuance of Germany's world commerce in aniline or coal tar dyes," according to a bulletin issued by the National Geographic Society from its headquarters in Washington.

"The United States, like many other countries, is looking longingly at the 'Turkish-red,' to India's indigo for its blues, to Mexico's cochineal for its scarlets, to Central America's logwood for its black and browns, to her own oak forests for their quercetinted yellow, and—no, not at the peculiar Mediterranean seashell for its purple, for the manufacture of the Tyrian shade beloved by emperors is one of the so-called lost arts.

"But these ancient vegetable dyes, some of which were in use when the pyramids were being made for the mummy builders of Egypt, can never replace the coal tar dyes, which, during the 60 years since they were accidentally discovered, have revolutionized the art of adding color to our clothes, our houses, hats and our bookbindings. In fact, aniline dyes furnish almost all the modern tints for which man is responsible.

"It was in 1856 that a young English chemist, while trying to produce artificial quinine, distilled from coal tar a substance which had a beautiful mauve tint. This was the first of the aniline dyes, which have now been produced in nearly a thousand commercial shades, 400 of which are widely used. This young chemist, William Henry Perkin, secured capital from his father, and began the manufacture of dyes, a result of which he was knighted and amassed a fortune.

His discovery immediately attracted the attention of German manufacturers, who aided by far-sighted bankers, employed university chemists, and established dye plants on the Rhine and Main rivers, inaugurating an industry which has enjoyed phenomenal success. At the outbreak of the present war 21 manufacturing establishments, most of them within an area of 130 square miles, had a practical monopoly of the aniline dye trade of the world.

"It is not a coincidence that 12 of Germany's biggest dye factories are located at Essen, adjacent to the leading munition plants of the Teutonic empire. The same coal tar which produces dye-stuffs also furnishes the essential ingredients of the high explosives used in the shells of the 16-inch guns which battered down the forts of Liege and which fill the head of the deadly submarine torpedo.

"Up to the time of Perkin's epoch-making discovery, coal tar was the waste product of the gas works which was burned to produce coke and illuminating gas. Today the once rejected third product has become, as it were, the keystone in the manufacture not only of dyestuffs and high explosives, but of many of the most important chemicals and innumerable medicinal compounds known as coal-tar preparations.

"At the outbreak of the war the United States was importing annually from Germany about $15,000,000 worth of aniline dyes. The discontinuance of these shipments has had an effect upon our industries out of all proportion to the actual value of the imports, for the manufacturing establishments in this country which used these dyes employ more than 2,000,000 workers and many of the factories have been forced to run on half time or even less.

"The increase in the price of some of the dyes can only be compared with the astonishing increase in the prices of shares in some of the war bride stocks. For instance, before the war blue had cost 60 cents to $24 a pound. Other dyes which formerly sold for 25 cents a gallon now bring $12.

"Since 1893 the United States has produced only about 20 per cent. of the dyes needed in domestic manufactures."

Birds without Homes.

The modern methods of building houses are leaving the song birds in cities without homes, is the declaration of the National Association of Audubon Societies. The big, old-fashioned chimneys into which chimney swifts used to scoot are disappearing, and the small fives of the houses of today afford no resting places for the feathered visitors.

"Tree dentistry," the new forestry method by which all the holes in trees are plugged, is another innovation that has deprived birds of their homes.

In summer, birds are most numerous where it is possible for them to find the best places to construct nests. Hole-nesting species are often driven out of a town or off an estate in spring and summer by the cutting of trees and the removal of the trunks or limbs of trees to be carefully filled with cement.

Artificial holes, in the form of various kinds of bird-boxes, will, in a large measure, overcome such deficiencies in a neighborhood. Even better are no longer made of rough lumber, with openings for birds to enter and find abundant resting places for their nests on the old-fashioned rough and rounded rafters.

A movement to provide city dwellings for the homeless songsters, started by the Audubon Societies, is reported to be gaining favor throughout the country. Thousands of manual training students in the schools of the country are now busy earning vacation money by building bird-houses. They are selling them to park commissioners, cemetery associations and bird lovers generally.

A cemetery association at Omaha has purchased 50 boxes made by the school-boys of that city and will use the boxes in converting the cemetery into a bird sanctuary.

Plows, Not Rifles, Needed.

While various types of interventionists are striving to involve this nation in general hostilities with the people of Mexico, it is pleasant to know that patriotic Mexicans who are best informed as to actual conditions understand the true attitude of the people of the United States. One of these men is quoted as saying: "What we need now is plows, not rifles; and, most of all, American aid and ideas."

"This applies not only to Mexico, but to all the world. Citizens of this country may be justified in thinking that when the world turns to the United States for plows instead of rifles, American aid and American ideas will help the nations to return to a permanent condition of peace. With this hope before them, Americans will continue to do what they conceive to be their duty toward all the nations now suffering from the heavy blows of war."

AN ABLE LECTURER SAYS

"The hope of civilization is the trained, educated, emancipated American woman."

He further stated, "The American woman has a position of command which her sisters of Europe have not attained. On the other side are old maids of both sexes who would confine her activities to cooking, sewing and child-bearing while the women here have accumulated large knowledge of affairs and will communicate it to future generations of men, with higher ideals of civilization. She is already bringing about a different model of masculine hero, different from the old, 'protecting, warring male.' Her hero is got the hero of fiction who will die for her, but a new man who will live and struggle with her."

"This is no cheap hero. Why, American women have already made their mark on the public men of the United States."

"Government by man alone is bachelor housekeeping marked by waste and extravagance. The government is housekeeping on a large scale. Tell a woman that the shells discharged in a single day, in the assault on Verdun would keep Columbia College running two years, and watch her housewifely thrift awaken and blaze at such wicked waste."

WHALE OF A WALLPAPER.

The Rev. A. J. Waldron, the popular English clergyman, has a fine "eye" for the humorous. One of the best stories that he tells is the following:

"A very dour-looking Salvation Army lassie, who was traveling in a railway train was asked by a man sitting next her whether she believed every word in the Bible."

"Yes," she replied, "I do."

"Surely," exclaimed the man, "you don't believe that Jonah was swallowed by a whale?"

"I do," she answered, "and when I get to heaven I'll ask him about it."

"But suppose he's not in heaven?" inquired the stranger, with a sneer.

"Then you ask him!" was the Salvation Army girl's reply.

Two Oxford men will long remember the kindly treatment accorded them by the Shakers of Sabbath Day Lake the other night, when they were the victims of an accident. They were passing through Poland with an automobile loaded with goods, and in turning out for a team, went into the ditch and the auto was overturned, pinning both underneath. They were rescued by the Shakers, taken into their homes, where their injuries were treated, and taken care of for the night, proceeding in the patched up machine in the morning, grateful but refusing to give their names.

CHOICE DISHES FROM ORANGES.

Orange Bread—Dissolve one-fourth yeast cake in one-half cup water, one well-beaten egg, one tablespoon melted butter, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, grated rind of 2 oranges, three-fourths cup orange juice; beat thoroughly; add three cups flour; beat again; turn on well floured board and knead. Roll elastic; cover and rise at night; in morning, shape and put in buttered pans; let rise; bake in hot oven. This is delicious for sandwiches also eaten with unsalted butter. This recipe makes one loaf, which will, if cut thin, make two dozen sandwiches.

Orange Cookies—One-fourth cup of butter, three-fourths cup sugar, one egg beaten together; add one-fourth cup orange juice, three cups flour, with two tablespoons baking powder sifted in. When well mixed add grated yellow rind of orange. Roll them and bake in moderate oven. Cut any shape desired. It is well to reserve the last cup of flour to use in rolling out as they do not need to be too stiff. Delicious and keep well.

Scotch Marmalade—To make this requires one good-sized, juicy orange, one lemon and one grapefruit. Wash the fruit so that the peel is thoroughly clean. Then cut open and extract the seeds, discarding the seeds. Discard all the tough fibrous parts and chop the fruit, peel and all.

Measure the juice and ground material adding two cups of water for every cup of material and juice. Stand away in a covered bowl for 12 to 24 hours. After this boil it 30 minutes and let stand for another 12 to 24 hours. Again boil it 30 minutes and add sugar, pint for pound and boil until it will jelly. Pour into tumblers and cool.

Orange Short Cakes—Peel and divide one dozen oranges, remove the tough white pieces; put in a dish a layer of oranges then one of sugar until all the oranges and a coffee cup of sugar are used; let it stand two hours or more. To one quart of sifted pastry flour add one teaspoonful salt, three heaping teaspoons baking powder and two teaspoons soda and four of cream tartar sift twice more and rub into flour two tablespoons butter and the same of cottolene; mix with 1 pint cold milk or milk and water, roll almost as thin as pie crust and cut out with a large roller or at least four inches in diameter; spread half of these with melted butter and place on top of them a second layer; dot these with bits of butter; place in a greased tin and bake in a hot oven 20 minutes or until brown; separate without cutting; brush the oranges that are on top with two layers of modern potato masher, pour some of the juice over each cake, stir the remainder of the oranges into sweetened whipped cream and pile on top; sent to table on large platter.

Orange Cocktail—One orange cut in quite small pieces (one-fourth of a fourth cup sugar, three heaping teaspoons grape juice, one cup water. Let it stand one hour. Serve in glasses with cherries on top. Increase according to number to be served. This is for one glass.

Marmalade—Three naval oranges, one lemon, sliced very fine, 11 tumblers of water. Soak 24 hours, then boil one hour. Stand another 24 hours, add two quarts of sugar, boil one hour. Makes 11 tumblers.

Roly-Poly—Roll in an oblong sheet, a light paste, made as for apple dumplings and lay oranges, peeled, sliced and seeded, thickly all over it. Sprinkle with white sugar; scatter one teaspoonful or more of the grated yellow peel all over it, and roll up closely, folding down the end to secure the syrup. Boil one and one-half hours in a pudding cloth. Eat with a lemon sauce. Sweet oranges are preferred.

Orange Cake—Two cups of sugar, one-half cup of water, yolks of five eggs, whites of three (beaten), pinch salt, juice and rind of one orange, two cups of flour, one teaspoonful baking powder, beaten white added last. Bake in layers.

Icing—Beaten whites of two eggs, and one cup powdered sugar, juice and rind of one orange; beat it until stiff. Put some between the layers, pour the other over the cake.

Orange Cakes—Make a number of cup cakes; then cut oranges in small pieces, lay them on the cakes and surround them with whipped cream.

Orange Mint Salad—Four oranges, one tablespoon sherry, two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon lemon juice two tablespoons finely chopped mint; peel oranges and divide into small pieces, removing connecting fiber and skin; add sugar and sherry (grape juice may be used instead of sherry if preferred); let stand for an hour in a cool place to marinate; just before serving sprinkle in the chopped mint; add the lemon juice; serve in small sherbet glasses.

Orange Jelly With Banana Cream—Cover one ounce of gelatine with one-half cup of cold water, and add the grated rind of a deep colored orange. When soft, stir in one cup of boiling water and one cup of sugar. Add two cups of orange juice and strain through cheese cloth, then turn into a border mold. Press two bananas through a sieve, add one tablespoon lemon juice and three one tablespoon powdered sugar; beat with a silver fork until very light and add one egg of cream whipped stiff. Turn over the jelly from the mold and fill the center with banana cream.

Guard Maine Border.

To prevent the spread of disease among cattle from New Hampshire to Maine, Boyden Beare of Augusta, the State Live Stock Sanitary Comr., Thursday issued orders with the approval of Gov. Curtis. The orders provide that no horses, cattle, sheep, other ruminants, swine, hides, hay, grain, straw or fodder of any kind shall be shipped into Maine from stations along the line of the Boston & Maine Railroad or the Maine Central railroad system which lies within a radius of 20 miles of Whitefield, N. H., unless accompanied by a permit from the live stock sanitary commissioner.

Boynton Beare of Augusta, State livestock sanitary commissioner, Wednesday issued an order to raise all embargo on the importation of livestock, hides, grain, hay, straw or fodder into the State of Maine which may have been caused by any disease after receiving a notification from the commissioner of agriculture of New Hampshire that the outbreak of anthrax in the town of Whitefield in that state is fully under control and all danger is passed.

A Regular Flirt.

That Waterford has many true lovers of the drama was demonstrated last week by a fine attendance and intense enjoyment of the entire three acts of the play "A Regular Flirt" which only a program and a dramatic personal were given last week in the Advertiser.

To say that any one character of the play was acted better than another, might be invidious, but of certain scenes in which the spirit of flirtation was illustrated by some of the best pieces of acting ever seen on this stage, was the scene in which the young lady, who sustained the part of the flirt, (Miss Graham), endeavored by persistent, over persuasions to win the affection of Dr. Morgan (Glenn McIntire) were grand. The acting of Dr. Morgan in resisting the enticements of the fair siren was equally good and irresistibly funny. Other scenes in which the Morgan nephews, Libby and Knight, held the audience for a few breathless moments in participation.

The acting of Dr. Morgan in resisting the enticements of the fair siren was equally good and irresistibly funny. Other scenes in which the Morgan nephews, Libby and Knight, held the audience for a few breathless moments in participation.

The Academy orchestra, with several talented new players since its last appearance here, rendered a number of very pleasing selections under the guidance of Mrs. Sadie Scribner's baton. The members of the orchestra are:

First violin.....Alvin Trudlove
Second violin.....Phyllis Brown
Third violin.....Winifred Hubbard
Viola.....Joseph Libby
Violoncello.....Wesley Evans
Pianist.....Marcia Robbins

Miss Robbins played a brilliant solo to the immense delight of her audience.

A Busy Man.
W. K. Hamlin attended the Farmers' meeting at Harrison Grange hall last week. Mr. Hamlin though having a number of important business interests, is yet a farmer.

He was born and raised on a farm, which he owns and cultivates at the present time, and it is being rendered more valuable each year by the improvements being constantly made by its owner.

Three thousand seedling white pine trees from a Connecticut nursery have recently been planted on the Hamlin homestead farm, which is at the end of Mountain Avenue, one of the most elevated farm locations in the town.

To Mr. Hamlin is due the honor of originator and principal promoter of the scheme for the organization of the Waterford and Norway Cow-testing Association, which honor is shared by the village and Bear Mountain Grange hall, where the organization was born.

Mr. Hamlin is one of the four or five charter members of Bear Mountain Grange living and for many years has proved his unswerving fealty of his obligations of constant attendance at its regular meetings and by willingly bearing the responsibilities of its official status.

He is not content with being the leader or overseer of his many sided business interests, but is an expert manual laborer in every department of work associated with overalls or leather apron. His hours of activity are from daylight to after dark or any old time short of midnight.

He is by mechanical training, skilled as a workman in the use of machinery, especially for woodworking, of which he has many kinds for various uses.

The Waterford Creamery, owned and managed by Mr. Hamlin, is well known as an institution of many years standing and is operated by the most advanced principles of Dairy Science. It has been practically under the personal management of one mind for 25 years and that of the highest degree of intelligence.

He is not content with being the leader or overseer of his many sided business interests, but is an expert manual laborer in every department of work associated with overalls or leather apron. His hours of activity are from daylight to after dark or any old time short of midnight.

INTENSIVE LIVING.

Japan can teach America how to live on the soil. Over here we glubly use the term "intensive farming," but over there in the Sunrise Empire they actually do the thing. Each square mile in the Mikado's realm that is under cultivation furnishes food for 2,300 people and at that rate it is a matter of simple arithmetic to discover that the arable land of any of our great American agricultural States would be able to support more people than are now living in the entire country.

The Oriental does not require a ten-acre lot for a kitchen garden. He is able to support his family on a bit of land to birdcock or plantain or golden rod. The Jap or Chinaman plows deep, fertilizes heavily, and gets three crops a year because he has but little and makes the most of it. A useful trick, that of the Jap! One who learns it may get much from the soil or from life. Intensive methods pay dividends in other spheres than that of farming.

It is not widespread diversity but concentrated effort that counts. Most of us could raise some kind of a prize crop if we would till well our single acre. The trouble is that we make a try at the whole farm. Think of that, young man! Are you spreading out your endeavors wide and thin or are you doing with your whole might the particular thing that your hands find to do?

Rigid limitation of effort is harder and wiser than appears at first glance. Good people sometimes think themselves responsible for every form of helpful activity practiced among mankind. The mistake is natural and people of earnest minds are most likely to fall into it, but nevertheless, one is responsible for only one particular bit of work, which having done, he should be well satisfied. To do one thing well, or at most two or three, is about the limit for most humans.

Happiness, too, waits on intensive methods. It is less the range than the vigor of our enjoyment that counts. The happy man is the one who has learned to get joy out of his daily occupation and common experiences. He will find more true happiness in a ride on the cars than his neighbors can get out of a six-cylinder car.

Do you think that we must have a lot of time and money in order to live? Are we waiting for the "good time coming" when we shall enjoy ourselves and the fruits of our labors? At the present moment we are living as truly as we ever shall live and we are in the possession of enjoyment—barring those "rainy days" that come into all lives at times—just as completely as we shall ever be possessed of it. If we are ever to be contented it must be now. Emerson says: "Write it on your heart that every day is the best day in the year. No man has learned anything rightly until he knows that every day is Doomsday."

To fill each day with honest work, clean fun and a spirit of serene courage, taking the simple joys as they come, is to make life worth living whether the financial results be a million dollars or just enough to live on.

TOWN BEAUTIFUL MOVEMENT.
The real estate promoter is a necessary element in town development. His faith in the town and enterprise as an investor makes a place grow. He takes chances with his funds, and his advertising pushes a town along. But his laying out of new tracts of land is not always conclusive to town beauty.

There has been a great tendency to cut up land into too small houselots. Outlying tracts may be worth but a small fraction of a cent per square foot. There is plenty of room for lawn and garden for each house. But the dealer may think that one 60-foot lot would not bring nearly as much money as two of thirty foot frontage each.

Real estate auctions, with gift features, balloons, band concerts, etc., have been a feature of development in many places. If they induce people to buy tiny little lots to be covered later with insignificant little congested dwellings, they do not promote the Town Beautiful Movement.

Thickly placed houses on little lots give an impression of poverty. The people are too close to each other. There is no elbow room. Children, dogs and hens roam at will in a thickly settled district. It becomes impossible to develop flowers or shrubbery. If grass is planted, the hurrying feet of children, seeking in vain for a real playground, soon wear it out.

The cutting up of real estate is a difficult matter to control by law. If it could be well regulated, it would be a blessing, but public sentiment is hostile to much interference with private property.

People should exercise more sense in choice of homes. Let them insist on decent sized house lots. A hundred or two added to cost of land, followed by planting of grass and shrubs and trees, will add many times the additional cost to the value of property. —Sanford Tribune.

LOOKING BACK.
It seems scarcely more than yesterday that we turned Cuban back to Cubans with considerable anxiety as to their ability to run their own affairs. It is particularly interesting to reflect now, however, upon what Spain allowed to slip through its fingers because it failed to treat decently an intelligent, capable people. For Cuba today has proved a wonderfully apt pupil, an assimilator of the lessons we laid out for it during American occupation. Visitors to the island this winter who have returned to their homes tell us they were impressed with the cleanliness and the sanitary regulations of the island republic. They found an absence of flies and mosquitoes, particularly flies in the great and fly-tenting sugar and syrup manufacturing, and without the need of soap and water to keep them out. The hotels were marvels of cleanliness, the sidewalks and streets scrupulously neat. What a difference from the Cuba of a few years back!

Before 1898 Cuba was a place of pestilence, Havana a yellow fever hole and a good place to stay away from. Today it is a semi-tropical resort that is clean and sweet-smelling, a world resort, in fact, for tourists.

The great change was brought about, by whom? It is history that Cuba's regeneration, in every line, dated from the day of the American occupation in the Spanish-American War. One of the first things that America did in Cuba when the Spanish departed was to have a clean up week. Army engineers and sanitary experts directed and running her own affairs under only the benevolent protection of the country that struck the shackles from her, is able, 18 years later, to prove to travelers that the American lessons of 1898 continue to be fruitful, is something that Americans may have a pride in as well as the Cubans.

UNCLE SAM'S GOOD TRADE.
Last year there were taken from the ground in Alaska minerals to the value of thirty-two millions of dollars. But Alaska's mineral wealth affords only one item in its annual yield. Its fisheries are a source of great riches. Its forests are valuable. It has great agricultural possibilities.

It is 39 years since Secretary Seward bought Alaska from Russia for the sum of $7,200,000. At that time, the transaction was ridiculed. Alaska was referred to as Walrusia. There were many Americans who thought that we had thrown our money away. Instead of doing that, Uncle Sam made a bargain which was a tribute to his sagacity as a Yankee trader.

A Bad Fire

Thursday, last week, a fire originated in burning brush at West Bethel near the railroad station. The building known as the "Beehive," containing four tenements (which was originally the Baptist church) was burned to the ground and in the terrific wind the fire swept through the woods to the "Birches," famous as a beauty spot in Bethel and vicinity. Leaving these comparatively undamaged the fire jumped across the road and railroad track into the pines, giving a bad scare to the safety of Sager Co. mill with its dry houses and huge yard of piled birch. This jump and the shift of wind probably saved many fine farm buildings in this vicinity, but the fire raged unchecked through timber and outcrops, sweeping onward rapidly toward Grover Hill. At one time the entire section of the steam mill, one mile from Bethel village was threatened and the great volume of smoke pouring down into the village caused great alarm here.

However, the wind shifted into the southeast. The fire in the woods in the Grover Hill section was fought by hundreds of men summoned by telephone from Bethel, Gilead, Locke's Mills and Bryant's Pond.

A contingent of men from South Paris with hose and fire equipments was also summoned, to be held at Bethel Hill in case the flames should reach the immediate neighborhood. At dusk the fire was thought to be under control in spite of the wind which continued to rage. The heavy rain in the thunder shower of Wednesday night dampened the woods so that this condition assisted the men in their work.

The "Beehive" was owned by Springer Co., who held partial insurance and it was occupied by Lucien McAllister and Alton Brooks who saved most of their household goods.

HOW OFTEN DOES YOUR LAMP NEED CLEANING?

Your lamps, oil cookstove or oil heater will not need cleaning half so often if you fill them with clean, reliable oil—Socony (So-CO-ny) Kerosene Oil.

Very often the lamp is blamed for smoking, smelling and forming wick crust, when it is really due to the use of inferior oil.

Kerosene is not all alike by any means—any more than all butter is alike. Or all flour, or all sugar.

Socony Kerosene Oil is the name of the Standard Oil Company of New York's best kerosene. It is manufactured by improved refining methods, and every gallon conforms to certain fixed standards of quality.

Say "Socony" to the grocer's boy when he comes to take your oil can. Look for the Socony sign on your grocer's window. It is a quality sign and one of the easiest ways to recognize a reliable dealer.

We recommend the following oil burning devices as the best of their kind: New Perfection Oil Cookstoves and Water Heaters, Perfection Smokless Oil Heaters, Rayo Lamps and Lanterns.

ARE YOU PLANNING TO SPRAY?

If not, you are making a big mistake, for even now the brown-tails which we had begun to hope had, like the buffalo bug, passed on to new territory, are hatching out in vastly greater numbers than had been supposed possible, after what has been done for their extermination.

The cost of spray materials is not so much greater than in years past, and just why so many farmers are deciding not to spray the orchards this year is something we cannot understand, but we would sound a warning note to those who are growing weary in well-doing, and ask them to keep the fight up even a little longer, and in that way receive benefits from past as well as present labor and expense.

One year of neglect at this crucial time will not only destroy your own chance of successful orcharding, but endanger that of your neighbors as well.

Think this matter over, decide in favor of humanity, and get busy with the sprayer.

Some of the new models in parasols show shades of smooth, unfinished wood in the natural color, surrounded by caps of red or cream agate. They are very simple and unusual. The long handle still remains popular.

KEZAR FALLS.

Tom Thumb Wedding.

A very pretty wedding took place in K. of P. hall on the evening of May 9th, the bride being Edie Hughes, a little dimpled darling, and the groom, Howard Giles, little midgey, under five years of age.

It was a very pretty affair and attended by a crowd of witnesses, the hall being crowded to its utmost capacity.

About sixty children took part in the performance which represented a modern society wedding, and the original Tom Thumb and bride could not have been received with greater eclat. The children were drilled for the occasion by Bessie Jones of Topeka, Kansas, who also furnished the captivating costumes which lent such a charm to the little ones, none over ten, playing at being grown-ups.

The entertainment was a financial success.

The Saco Valley Teachers' Association met at the Town hall for an all day session, May 12th. Dinner and supper were served in the vestry by the Ladies' Circle.

Last Sunday was Mothers' Day and appropriately observed in the services at the M. E. church.

Bridget people presented a very good drama in Knights of Pythias hall on the evening of May 12th.

W. W. Bird.

This community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of one of the oldest residents in town, W. W. Bird, last Tuesday at about five o'clock. He had been out riding in the afternoon and only lived a short time on arriving home.

He was the second son of Samuel and Lucy Dunn Bird and was born in Bethel, January 27, 1840. He married Carrie A. Jordan, May 11, 1862. In the fall of 1864 they moved to Albany and there have resided ever since. He leaves to mourn their loss two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Trickey of Jackson, N. H., and Mrs. George F. Jones of Bethel, three sons, Matland Bibrige and Will Bird of this place, also two granddaughters, Mrs. Marjorie McAlister of Albany, Mrs. Bertha Moody of Jackson, N. H., and three great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the house, Friday at 2 p. m., by Rev. G. W. Sias of Waterford speaking words of comfort to the sorrowing ones. The flowers were a pillow from the children; 70 pinks from Mrs. N. I. Trickey and family; a wreath and bouquet from Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McAlister; a basket of flowers from Mrs. C. G. Abbott; Mayflowers from Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Brown; a spray of violets from Gussie and Ethel French; and a wreath from Chas. McAlister and family.
